A new book reveals the secrets of how to create more with less effort.

We all want to be more productive, but it can be hard to know where to start. We may feel like we're working harder and harder, but not getting any more done. The good news is, there is a better way.

In his new book, How So Little Is Created By So Many Working So Hard, author John Doe shares his secrets for creating more with less effort. Doe has spent years studying the habits of highly productive people, and he has identified the key factors that contribute to their success.

In this book, Doe shares his insights on:

- The importance of setting clear goals

- The power of focus
- The benefits of taking breaks
- The importance of collaboration
- The role of technology

Doe's book is full of practical advice that you can start using today to improve your productivity. If you're ready to start creating more with less effort, then this book is for you.
